How to Have a Stress-Free Presentation

Lack of planning on your part does not create an emergency on mine.

Getting Started – Photos

- Digital camera – good for powerpoint, slide shows, wikis, etc.
- Image editing tools – Pixlr – www.pixlr.com
- Video camera – analog or digital
 - great for action shots
 - requires lots of planning and editing

Wiki

- Holds lots of info
- Good for photos, embedded video
- Can be accessed from anywhere
- Wikispaces - www.wikispaces.com, PBWiki - www.pbwiki.com

Blogging

- Journaling
- Web based
- Collaboration
- Multimedia
- Word Press, Blogger

Powerpoint Presentation

- Lots of options
- Good for text (keep to minimum)
- Multimedia
- Microsoft Powerpoint or Keynote

- Digital
- Simpler than Powerpoint
 - Can use applications like iPhoto, Photostory
 - online resources sliderocket.com, slide.com
 - Upload your photos, choose a frame, theme, transitions, add music. Create an interesting slideshow for your images
 - Bubbleshare.com - Similar to slide.com, upload photos and choose frames and transitions to create a slide show online, can add music and text.

Video Presentation

- Needs extensive planning
- Keep it short
- Editing takes a lot of time
- Availability of equipment
- Can add music, still photos, special effects for interest
- Editing software (iMovie, Final Cut Pro, Movie Maker)

Podcast

- Audio with pictures
- Video
- Can be embedded on Wiki/Blog
- iPod - iTalk recorder, iPhone, Apple Touch
- Garageband, Audacity - free online audio mixing tool, Podomatic (www.podomatic.com), Podcast hosts - Podbean, Libsyn

Music

- Creates a mood
- Adds interest
- Can be embedded
- Can be played on CD player in the background
- Garageband, Link on wiki for a list of websites that can be used to find music for your multimedia presentation
